HANA TROPICALS

Weather Watch: As we all know, the weather has been extreme this winter. We take extra precautions this time of year to ensure that flowers arrive safe and fresh! They are perishable plants, however, and it is important that everyone take the necessary steps to ensure their safe arrival! If flowers are being sent to another address as a gift, please notify recipient of their eminent arrival. Boxes cannot be left at doorsteps in the cold weather or the flowers will freeze.

Orchids: the gift that keeps on giving

Did you know, orchids bloom annually? This means if you get an orchid in bloom for someone special this Valentine's Day, if taken care of properly, it will bloom around this time of year every year for an average of ten years. You could be set for Valentine's Day for the next ten years!

Doesn't get much better than that!!

We've got two Valentine's Day orchid specials this year!

Double Chocolate Supreme: This special is for those chocolate lovers out there. One chocolate orchid (with chocolate fragrance) plus a box of Hawaiian Macadamia Nut Chocolates!

Lc Rojo "Happy Valentine": This orchid, with its lush dark green leaves, has sweet red buds opening up just in time for Valentine's Day, and what an appropriate name!

Valentine's Day Orchid Specials

Love is always in the air in Hana!

Two of our former WWOOFers met at Hana Tropicals in 2015, fell in love, and now they're getting married this upcoming June! Isn't that wonderful!! Join us in celebrating the love of Craig & Katie as they tie the knot this summer in Pennsylvania - surrounded by orchids and their favorite tropical flowers, of course.

'I love you' in Hawaiian

'Aloha au iā 'oe'

Note the Hawaiian diacritical markings: the kahakō, or long-vowel marker over the "a" in "iā," and the 'okina, or glottal stop marker, in "'oe."

"Aloha," in this context, means "love." "Au," often pronounced "vow" (but with only a very, very soft "v"), means "I" or "me." "'Oe" means "you." "Iā" is a dative article indicating the direction of the action.

We are so excited to have started off 2018 with thriving gardens! We are currently producing a variety of fruits and veggies including pineapple, daikon radish, eggplant, chayote squash, ruby grapefruit, meyer's lemons, tumeric, as well as salad greens, chile peppers, basil, rosemary, sweet potatoes, ginger, etc.

Goals of 2018 include cover cropping and working on our soil health (composting, cover cropping with nitrogen-fixing plants) so that our veggies will be extra healthy down the road.

In other news, we have a brand spanking new Moringa Manager, Tanner Wagner! Tanner has been a part of our team for 6 months now, and we are so excited to welcome him to stay permanently in this new position. Lots of experimenting to come! Stay tuned for some amazing new products made with our organic farm materials just for you.

Want to do something extra special for your loved one this year? In Hawaii, giving a lei is an honored tradition where you gift a string of green ti leaves and orchids or plumeria flowers to someone very important in your life. This beautiful token is sacred and special.

Various leaves, flowers, nuts, shells and more can all be used in leis that will show just how much you care.
